History of the Community and School by Steve Flores

The three-story school was built in 1921, however Immaculate Conception School had been around since the early 1900's. The school operated as an elementary, middle school, and a high school. By the mid-1960's more and more students started attending public high schools and Immaculate Conception was one of seven Catholic High Schools that closed during the 1960's.

The grand three story school is still standing at 501 National Avenue in Las Vegas. The school is in great shape and is used for catechism classes, educating the Catholic youth in Las Vegas. The gymnasium is on the bottom floor. It was a small gym, with little room for seating. The ceiling has been lowered and floor raised. The gym now looks like a large convention room. On the third floor is a very impressive auditorium.
